The Neighborhood House Women's Club held their annual picnic at Lincoln Park Thursday, July 11th. There were races for all, big and small, and a good old time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Froeter of 8330 S. Peoria St. entertained a party of young folks, having as their guest of honor Mr. Ira Huey of Toronto, Canada, member of the Royal Flying Corps. Refreshments were served and the house decorated in the different flags.

ENTERTAIN JACKIE

Mr. Harold Kilbride, 523 W. 78th St., who was one of the first to leave the Jolly Junior Girls' Club to join Uncle Sam's Navy about a year ago, is in on a furlough from France. The girls gave a party in his honor at Bernadett Phee's home Sunday evening, July 14th.

Harold will leave Tuesday to go back on his sixth trip back to France

Ogden Park Auxiliary

Amid the rush of a big drive, organization along new lines and the regular stress of work, Ogden Park Auxiliary pauses a moment to survey its work. Its pride is pardonable. The workmanship on the garments and the surgical dressings has reached the acme of perfection Attention to every detail has made a consummate whole

A First Aid class to be open for evening instruction is announced Forty women are already enrolled A day class is also forming

In the matter of the Salvage Campaign On the dates of July 15 and 16 every woman in the 32nd Ward will be visited by Red Cross workers and asked to sign a pledge card promising to sell junk only for the benefit of the Red Cross The salvage proceeds are to be used for the families of sailors and soldiers in the U. S service Mrs Waldemar Venzie, chairman of the 32nd Ward District, will be happy to give further information to anyone who will phone either Englewood 157 or Wentworth 943.

The Auxiliary of Ogden Park takes this opportunity to thank Mr Chas Schiff, dry goods merchant at 423 W 63rd St for the donation of a 12-foot solid oak counter, a glass show-case, and a fine piece of shelving

—Isabel Porner Weddon

Every spendthrift adds to the war's length

If your neighbor offers his life, surely you can loan your money Save with the same eagerness that your neighbor fights, and buy W. S S with your savings.

Marsall Field, some years ago, said "Careful saving and careful spending invariably promote success. Economy is one of the most essential elements of success, yet most wretchedly disregarded The 5 or 10 cents squandered a day if saved, will in a few years amount to thousands of dollars If a man is not competent to manage a small income or a small business, he is not competent to manage a large income or a large business."

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

In His Latest and Most Sensational Release

Say Young Fellow

in "Say! Young Fellow"

Doesn't that title sound just like Doug Fairbanks? Well, it is, too—only you will find our athletic star in a somewhat different role in this story—that of a young cub reporter whose smiling optimism wins him a host of friends, and the confidence of his city editor. When he is sent out to cover a certain assignment, however, his enthusiasm almost ends his journalistic career. Then the girl happens along, and, well—you can guess the rest. It's Fairbanks all the way through.

ALSO

BESSIE LOVE

IN

'A Little Sister of Everybody'

Somehow or other that title just seems to suit Bessie Love to a "T." Because she is a most lovable little person, and in this story she plays the role of a girl of eighteen, bubbling with spirits and good nature, and loving everybody and everything in sight. Truly she is a most untidy little maid, with her hair and her clothes always in disorder, until—she falls in love in a really and truly way; and then—well, she may be small, but she sure is shrewd, and the way she handles that big problem which comes into her life is truly remarkable. There is a fine flavor of patriotism which adds to the romantic element of the picture

GEORGE M. COHAN
in "Hit-the-Trail Holliday"
As ADVERTISED

Geo. M. Cohan

IN

"Hit the Trail Holliday"

When we tell you that this picture is from the stage success of the same name, which was written by George M. Cohan, and when we also tell you that the author himself appears in the title role, it will hardly be necessary to tell you anything more about the story. The principal character—that of Billy Holliday, a celebrated bartender of high ideals, who plays the game square and refuses to serve drinks to youths or incompetents, is a stage portraiture of Billy Sunday, the evangelist. Teaching as it does the value of temperance, the story is yet not a preachy one, but full to the brim with fun and heart appeal and sincerity of purpose. Don't miss it!

"The Girl in His House"

Some men are hard hit when the girl they love turns them down, and some take it philosophically and start right out to look for another mate. Jas. Armitage was the former kind, however. And so when Clare Wendell jilted him, he turned over his estate to his lawyer and sailed for Burma, where for six long years he buried himself, until a newspaper told him that Clare was a widow. And then he came back. But did he return to Clare? Well—that would be telling. But he certainly was a surprised man when he found his beautiful home occupied by a very beautiful and mysterious young girl. He found a lot of other things, too

The Girls in France

A love-sick swain of forty-five,
Perhaps a few years more,
Residing here in Englewood,
Stood in a corner store,
The girls would flock around him
Just as they off-times do,
He tho't he was quite witty,
So this he said to Sue.

"'Tis said the girls in gay Paree
Buy anything for you—
A cup of tea, some chewing gum,
Put sugar in your brew.
You never need to spend a cent
Nor roll away your pay.
The girls in France are simply great
And make one's life quite gay."

Then Sue spoke up—a fine girl,
Also from this town—
Said "Things are not so funny;
Green grass is never brown
I never sailed the ocean,
But this quite well I know,
You've got to wear the khaki
When the French girls smile at you.

"You have to wear the khaki, white or blue,
If they buy the chewing gum for you.
In the trenches you must fight;
You can't waste the evening light,
For their country work and do
You've got to wear the khaki, white or blue."

—Alma B. Wilson.

Bridges.

The only mention of a bridge in the canonical Scriptures is indirectly in the principality of Geshur, a district to the northeast of the sea of Galilee. At this place a bridge is said to exist still which is called by the Arabs "the bridge of the sons of Jacob." The Romans are credited with being the first constructors of arched bridges over streams.

RIGHT LIVING.

In the firm control of our thoughts lies the secret of the most wonderful possession of which we can boast—character. It is as much a matter of habit as of will, this being always honorable, truthful, just. Having formed our principles of right living, conscience invariably points to a whole hearted loyalty to them. And when baser motives try to sway the mind, why, here is just where your will power may profit by exercise.

Luke McLuke Says:

What has become of the old fashioned pink sea shell that used to repose on the old fashioned whatnot?

There is something wrong with the man who doesn't feel good when a friend has a streak of good luck.

A young man doesn't know it. But the boss can tell the man who is capable of doing a higher class of work by watching how he does the small jobs he is started in on.

There are lots of people who will tell you that the latchstring is always out. But they do not mention the fact that there is a bulldog loose in the front yard.

Some men are so worried over the European situation that they can't hold their own.

A man will always agree with you when you tell him that he is overworked and needs a rest.

A sob sister claims that a kiss should last for at least thirty seconds. Huh! Three seconds is long enough for a wife to find out what she wants to know.

The sphinx isn't the biggest mystery in the world. The most mysterious thing in the world is the opening

The Philadelphia mint turns out 2,000,000 coins a day.

Too Fresh.

He flirted with her in the pew,
He was too fresh, was Walter,
But May made him feel very blue
By handing him the Psalter.

The Wise Fool.

"We never get so old that we cannot absorb information," observed the sage.

"That's right," replied the fool. "Even a chorus girl can learn something new every day."

Queer.

It is a funny thing and yet
It is quite true, you'll find—
The faster you run into debt
The more you get behind.

Emergency Shoehorn.

Once when I had been in swimming I found myself without a shoehorn, but a friend showed me a little trick that supplied my need. Simply fold your handkerchief two or three times and lay it on the shoe at the heel, holding one end of it. As you press your heel down into the shoe gradually draw on the end of the handkerchief, and when the heel is nearly all the way down draw out the improvised horn. The shoe will slip on the foot easily.—Popular Science Monthly.

Norway's Long Day.

Summer time brings more than two months of continuous daylight at Wardburg, Norway, in the "Land of the Midnight Sun." That little village near the North cape has the longest day of any civilized community in the world, extending from May 21 to July 22, during which period the sun is at all times visible except when obscured by clouds

How the Condor Is Caught.

Many birds cannot fly straight up. They must rise at a very gentle incline. They must get onward motion before their wings can get full effect of the air. It is said that the mode of taking the condor is to build a pen, say, forty of fifty feet in diameter and six feet high and put a carcass in the middle of it. The condor alights, but cannot again rise at an angle which will take him over the fence.

Many heavy bodied, short winged ducks rise from the water at so small an angle that they must use both feet and wings for thirty or forty feet in order to get onward motion enough to give effectiveness to their wings by meeting larger masses of still air.
